

OUTDOOR EDUCATION

DELIVERING DIFFERENTLY

Welcome back! As schools return, our services are looking at ways that we still support and stimulate your learning in a different way.

We want to use our experience to develop something that genuinely works and will help teachers and educators during what could be a difficult transition.

With social distancing measures in place in our schools, we see the space that our local countryside offers as being key to delivering a rich and varied curriculum successfully.

Our Outdoor Learning Team has developed a programme which offer participants a wide range of activities that are accessible, educational, fun and inspiring. Whilst we are all working differently we have put together an offer that will continue to allow you to access what we do, but in a different way.

We want to use our experience to develop something that genuinely works and will help teachers and educators during what could be a difficult transition.

"As schools begin to plan how to manage a return to some form of wider return of pupils, the outdoors can be a hugely beneficial asset as both a teaching and learning environment "

Please feel free to contact us with any queries or just to have a chat about how we can help over the coming months.

We are continuously looking at different ways of supporting schools. If you have an idea or would like to chat about how we can deliver differently, then just give us a call.

OUTREACH

It might not be so easy to get out of the classroom and travel to our Outdoor Education Centre, but there are lots of fabulous countryside sites across the borough and there may be a suitable site within walking distance of school.

We are happy to discuss potential sites, chat about what workshops we can deliver close to your school or in school grounds and help plan and deliver activities for the session.

We can also discuss delivering our workshops from our Education Centre as a full day for a smaller group of pupils or condense into a half day session with a group in the morning and another in the afternoon .
